

Press Release and Stage Plot

Down the Road is a trio of bluegrass and American roots music veterans from the Snoqualmie Valley, Washington area that includes husband/wife duo Cathi and Gary Davidson on guitars and vocals and John Tubbs on mandolin and vocals. The band's music spans a range from old-time country and traditional bluegrass music through folk and contemporary bluegrass, with a focus on duet and trio harmony singing and clean, tasteful instrumental work, all performed in a relaxed, straightforward style.

Down the Road Technical Details and Stage Plot

Down the Road will perform using a single Rode Classic large diaphragm tube mic (with power supplied by its own preamp) on a mic stand. We will provide the mic, mic stand, mic preamp, and mic-to-preamp cable. The mic should be placed at stage center, well behind (towards stage back) the main PA speakers. The Rode Classic preamp will also be located on stage and requires a single power outlet to plug into. We use no monitors.
